GOVERNOR OF THE MONTH

MAY

All about me!

I studied Primary Education at Durham University. I began my teaching career in a large primary school in Hull where I gained a wealth of experience and became part of the school's leadership team.

I spent over ten years teaching in Year 6, gaining extensive experience in supporting pupils both academically and pastorally as they prepared for the transition to secondary school. I then moved to Elloughton Primary School to take up the role of Deputy Headteacher.

During my career, I have had the opportunity to teach across every year group, including leading Early Years Foundation Stage. I am passionate about ensuring that all children feel supported, confident, and excited about their learning, and I am incredibly proud to be part of the Elloughton team and the wider school community.

Why did I choose to be a governor at Elloughton?

I care deeply about our children, staff and wider community, and being a governor allows me to contribute to the bigger picture and long-term direction of the school. It's important to me that every decision we make keeps pupils at the heart, and I'm proud to play a vital part in helping our school continue to grow and thrive.

My favourite thing about being a governor is...

One of the best things about being a governor is knowing that you're making a real difference to children's lives, even if much of the work happens behind the scenes. Governors help shape the direction of the school, support and challenge leaders, and make sure decisions always put children first. It's incredibly rewarding to see the impact of those decisions over time and to play a part in supporting a school at the heart of its community.
